

THE NEW EARTH VISIONING PROJECT

WEEK #3

5TH DIMENSIONAL PEOPLE AND OUR UNIQUENESS

June 3, 2021

PRESENTATION – Janice Coyle

Last time we spoke about our vision of New Earth and some fundamental characteristics of this new Earth we want to envision and help manifest.

Today's subject will be about OURSELVES as NEW EARTH PEOPLE.

As we can see, we are evolving very quickly. Just picture what and how you were 10 or 20 years ago and how you are now! Lots of change, lots of knowledge, lots of growth and relatively quickly especially in the past few years.

And the truth is that what we think we have become will be further progressing with the increasing vibrations that we are encountering and the chaos we are enduring, all assisting in our transformation.

Whatever we think of our growth and what we have achieved is just the tip of the iceberg. Some writer once said that our highest imaginings of what we are and can be is but a tiny bit of what we are actually capable of.

I've decided to talk about my own experiences in what we really are and what we may be when we achieve a constant higher vibration – the 5th dimension, some people call that level of vibration.

TWO MAIN EXPERIENCES OF MY LIFE

1. AWAKENING EXPERIENCE AT AGE 9

There are two main experiences of my life that have given me continuing insights into what we are, our potential and what we are evolving into.

The first one is my awakening experience at the age of 9. I wrote about it briefly in a recent blogpost on the website, janicecoyle.org. It is called The Day I Disappeared and is the first chapter in the spiritual memoir I am writing. You can read it here: <https://janicecoyle.org/the-day-i-disappeared-chapter-1/>

You can read the details there, but just to be brief, I was at a German summer camp for children. I walked up many “hills” as called it – in the mountains which were actually ski trails in winter. One day I went to the center of an opening in the forest and lay down among the summer wildflowers. I experienced my body expanding to include the field, then the trees, then a bursting forth into the sky.

My experience was that I became the forest, I became the sky, then a bursting forth again in the all of everything, I became everything in a place of no time and no space, beyond manifestation. I felt that all of creation emanated from something I was then identified with. No more Janice, no separate body, only this oneness. – very hard to describe.

I tell the story in the words of myself at 9 years old. I end this description with words from today:

“On a beautiful day in 1955 at a children’s summer camp near Trefis, Germany, a 9-yearold girl disappeared and was no more. She left that little something people called Janice and became – everything.”

There were two immediate insights I got from this experience.

1. Everything is created for fun - as the years went by I began to doubt this one. How can suffering be fun?
2. It’s all happening at once – there is no time.

These were the immediate insights there would be many more during the years since. But for our purposes here, this experience has given me many insights about what we really ARE as very sacred points of consciousness, multi-dimensional beings at one with the all in a very intimate way.

What we are is so huge! I wondered in my teens how it was possible to forget it! Well beware of what you ask for! I would forget again and again.

Since then, I read accounts of many people who have had similar experiences – some briefly for an instant and others for an hour, for a day... Some like the great Healer, Joel Goldsmith could take his consciousness there at will. This being the key to his remarkable healing ability.

WE ARE INCREDIBLE BEINGS

As human beings on this planet, we all have the capacity to go to these levels in consciousness while being embodied. Our neural systems actually allow and foster this. We have the ability to go up and down the vibrational levels with ease. For example we can be in shame (the lowest vibration of all) and suddenly we are in joy (one of the highest) depending on the stimulus.

I've read a number of people who channel ET races and they report that some ETs admire this capability of earth humans to go up and down the scales into other dimensions. Not everyone in the cosmos, they report, can do this while embodied so we are admired by other races for this ability.

What I came away with is that We are gifted, multidimensional, points of consciousness in tune with the all of everything with the abilities of the all – we can use the all-knowing, all-present, all-power in many ways, through our sudden insights, sudden inspiration, and so forth.

In a moment of grace when I was 9, I came into direct experience of what we all are, and our ability to be conscious of it. I knew even then that what was true of me had to be true of everyone.

So when we later tonight envision ourselves as New Earth people, let's remember, if only intellectually, what amazing cosmic and multidimensional beings we are, and that at any moment we actually have the capability to bring our consciousness to that level.

2. MY SECOND MOST INSIGHTFUL EXPERIENCE

The 2nd most insightful experience of my life was a so called “dream” I had one night of being taken to another place, I now believe was a Pleiadian starship. There continue to be insights coming from this experience also. I have written up a brief summary of this experience in another article on the website here: <https://janicecoyle.org/my-year-long-trip-to-elsewhere-a-pleiadian-ship/>

You may have read it. There is much more to say than on this brief article, much more! Many of the continuing insights are about us and our current ongoing transformation into a higher level of being and more expanded states of consciousness.

I'll read some passages from this piece and expand on it to include insights and details for us to ponder when envisioning ourselves as new earth people. The people I met in this dream, the teachers and other crew were definitely in a higher vibration than we are here – I believe now they were living in the vibration we call the 5th dimension.

Ok, let's begin:

In 1987 a dream appeared, or was it a dream? I was in an elevator with A beautiful woman dressed in an iridescent pastel tweed suit reminding me of the Coco Chanel suits with strait skirt and simple jacket.. She was short – my height with short curly amber hair, a heart shaped face with light hazel eyes shining amusement. I would later name her The French Lady because in that whole year with her she always wore that same Coco Chanel-like suit. I never learned her name. Or, maybe upon waking after a year with her, I didn't remember.

Her first words to me in the elevator: “You need help!” her eyes declaring this to be the most fun fact in the universe. Her delight in everything would become catching and I learned in that year to laugh at myself, all with accepting self-love, or almost! I was not as accomplished a soul as she by millions of years, or so it seemed. Her kindly laughter would banish any anxiety or sense of limits

She took me to a kind of hangar, then into a domed enclosure with walls of metal-like substance and pastel lighting coming from the walls.

I knew I was in another world: magical, mystical, mysterious and beautifully felt. To say it was “otherworldly” does not quite describe the different feeling of a place where virtually everything is not only OK, but fun.

Remember my childhood insight that all creation is for fun? - Here we go again!

My first insight as a child after that awakening experience was that all creation was for fun. And in this experience I encountered that again. I met colleagues of the French Lady during that year, other teachers, engineers, the leader of the whole community. They clearly loved what they did and had so much joy and each their own unique way of showing this joy. The French lady was very outgoing, very vivacious, practical and business-like with a great sense of humor and an infectious laugh. - the characteristic I would remember most. “She had a kind of laugh that dispelled all fear, all anxiety. Why laughter? –In our next meeting when we talk about vibration, we will find that joy is one of the very highest vibrating emotions – fear, is among the lowest and can’t stand up to joy at all! So of course, in the presence of such dispelling joy and total acceptance, how could fear survive?

EVERYONE WAS UNIQUE

So one of the characteristics of these 5D people was joy, and unconditional love, but each of them expressed it in their own way. Some were quieter and more introspective than the French Lady. . Some were of other races, I saw brown people, greenish people, almost stark white people and all sizes and shapes and they clearly loved each other.

And another thing, as I said, the French Lady was dressed in an iridescent pastel colored suit with a strait skirt and jacket. The pastel color changed with the changing light. I later wondered if the whole vision was of ethereal people, but the whole “dream” was so real and they all were very definitely embodied with clothes you could touch.

My intuition told me that everything about The French Lady was a lesson to me. So why did she wear heavy brown leather lace-up shoes with such a beautiful feminine suit? It took me many years to figure that one out and put it together with her statement “you need help”

Back to the article:

The French Lady told me she would be my personal mentor. A small Spartan room appeared furnished only with a little chest and a cot, but not just any cot. This one bent to shape the body in soft embrace. She showed me how to use my mind to make the back wall lit or dark, transparent or solid. When transparent, I gazed out to see the passing galaxy. This is why I believe it was a starship.

TECHNOLOGY

One of you last week spoke of technology. There was so much higher technology on this ship. As for the wall that responded to my intent and thought. That is not that much far along than we are. Our iPads and laptops have touchpads that respond to the electrical energy emanated from our bodies, not just fingers. Experiment and you will find, your toes, your elbow, your tongue (if not very wet) or any other part of your body will work. But you can touch the pad repeatedly using a stick and nothing happens. The computer is responding to the electrical energy from our bodies.

In the wall in my room was responding to the energy emanating from my intent and thoughts -. This proves, doesn't it? that our thoughts go out with energy also. So be careful of your thoughts – they are energized things that have effect outside ourselves. As you see, we are not far from there in our technology.

The ability to read the intent and emotion of thoughts is already here, animals have that capacity, dogs have it, dolphins have it.

We will one day open to this as well and there will be thought communication. But perhaps first, machines will do it.

Back to the article:

“I would be there for an earth-year of experiences, she said, assuring me that it wouldn't matter back home as only a few Virginia minutes would pass. She immediately began the “lessons” that would help my obvious need. But what exactly was that need? I didn't know.”

The timelines in other dimensions are different than ours here. A thousand years of experiences can take only a few minutes of earth time, so to speak. We have many examples of this especially from Near Death experiencers.

And another consideration: my second insight as a child after the awakening experience is that everything is happening at once and there is no time.

Back to the article:

I was put in classes with other human beings, mostly young adults and some children – all wearing their earth-race bodies. Dressed in the traditions of their cultures on Earth, they were a colorful lot. One young boy, maybe 15 years old, stood out. He was tall, husky, Asian, with the aura of strength and confident leadership, his dark eyes piercing but kind. I sensed an Earth destiny of power and influence – a paradigm transformer. Any anxious thoughts about Earth's struggles vanished in his presence.

You will note that the Asian boy's effect on me, the calming removal of anxiety was the same effect The French Lady had, but was done differently – not with charming laughter, but with his own personality and presence – but the same effect – interesting!

The classes were conducted by historians, psychologists and scientists – all talking about the energy dynamics of earth and how to navigate the strong polarities of the 3rd dimension. They spoke of the current matrix created by the strong intentions and thoughts by some, and subconscious acquiescence by many. Much of what they spoke about I did not then understand, so much so, I wondered why I was there?

They mentioned the strong polarities of this vibration we are in. We are in a realm of very good and very bad, kindness and hate, love and fear and all these are now becoming stronger opposites or polarities. We can look out and see this. It is part of the transformation. The teachers spoke a lot about the effect of strong intentions and thoughts as well as the subconscious agreement by others. In fact, they constantly measured and assessed the accumulated thought atmosphere of earth life and made predictions based on that. So our thinking and intentions have a lot of influence as we keep saying.

Back to the article:

In contrast, The French Lady's lessons were very simple and mostly consisted of practice in conscious focus and observation similar to mindfulness. Though simple, I failed almost all her assignments. Once she sent me on a trip to another place where lessons were taught. I traveled on a train-like conveyance with a window view of the quick passing fields, forests and lakes. At the other "school" I came to a classroom and made the intention to observe every little thing. I put my mind on alert determined to finally succeed.

To cut this shorter, I will just say that I failed this test and could not name the colors of things, the number of doors in the classroom and other obvious things.

WHY I NEEDED HELP

I was beginning to learn why the French Lady thought I needed help. I was a very absent minded person from childhood. Possibly because of my awakening experience, I rejected this realm preferring that place of no time, no manifestation, and so forth. –it was bliss and I wanted back.

But I was not as functional here as I could be and in that condition, not of much use either. I was not fully into this incarnation – that became very clear as I sometimes had to shake myself to be here at least fully enough to function.

Her mindfulness exercises were meant to bring me into a better alignment of my etheric, astral and physical bodies and the chakras – which were all array. Yes! More grounded was what I needed help with. That was the clue to the heavy brown shoes! They were the color of earth soil. She was very grounded, very centered and that was the reason for her incredible presence. Like the Asian boy, both were very grounded and that gave them power and energy. It was a long time before I would accept this as it seemed not so spiritual to me. But I have begun to see this as embodied spirit – very effective and very powerful in manifesting anything and being anything for that matter.

Everyone there had that centered grounded presence – but, again, each in a different way. For example, the French Lady sent me to a class as a test of my observation skills.

In the classroom were many human students and a handsome 40ish human man teaching social studies including Earth's politics and customs. He seemed to be kindness itself as he lectured and showed us holographic pictures of activities and meetings on Earth. I was intrigued and really focused to be present and remember everything. I was confident my observations would pass the test.

As I said I did not pass her test and did not observe many physical things like colors, placement of stuff, etc. But, I want here to describe this teacher. He was very different from The French Lady, He was quiet, soft spoken, gentle, intellectual and very kind. His whole style was seemingly opposite of her outgoing nature and constant humor. But, his effect was similar, in his presence I had no stress and felt wholly accepted, he had confidence and integrity that was very effective but again differently expressed than hers. His personality and energy were different.

Back to the article:

After many other tests, she informed me it was time to leave and go back to Virginia. Her second-to-last test was at a reception of dignitaries I assumed were administrators and teachers. All were beautiful and full of light. They were of different and strange races. They all knew and liked The French Lady and were obviously her colleagues

I was offered a delicious pink liquid served in a triangular-shaped shallow cup with wide opening. My assignment was to mix and mingle with everyone, while not spilling a drop from my cup.

Piece of cake, I thought.

Well, I failed that one too!

As always we laughed and laughed. She could be so delightfully entertained by things I thought either "good" or "bad" but she saw it all as the same fun. Her laugh was full of amused acceptance. She seemed far more advanced than I in every way. But she always regarded me with what felt like a reverent admiration I still don't understand.

This was written about three years ago and since then, my insights are coming fast and I think I do understand now. She regarded me and everyone else with a kind of awe even. It was as if we each were something unique in her experience, something therefore precious and expanding of her own essence.

MY INSIGHTS

I have since had many insights about this. We are all unique. In our embodied individuality, we all have our own perspectives our own slice of the all consciousness while also, at a higher non-physical level , we ARE the all consciousness itself.

Scientist have found no two snowflakes that are exactly alike. Nature, the cosmos – seems very efficient and does not duplicate any experiences or manifestations.

As to uniqueness, I know this by being an identical twin. My sister, Janet and I looked so much alike people confused us. As identical twins, we had the same genetic makeup, we grew up in the same house, same parents, and went to the same schools occupying the same classrooms, etc. But we were inside very different. I've written about this in another article on the website titled Growing up Identical, if you are interested in this.

A few years after this dream, I observed my sister and suddenly it came into my mind that God was perfecting another quality in her. Precious and different than mine.

The French Lady must have seen something like this in everyone. I have since realized I visited a place where differences in perspective, in energies, personalities, talents, energy and interests were not only welcome but revered as sources of inspiration and consciousness expansion. In this place were many different people, engineers, artists, teachers, researchers, leaders. All were loved and cherished.

I so admired the French lady and wanted to be just like her. But she many times told me to not imitate her, not try to be like her. She said always: "be yourself - that is your job simply to be yourself". But, I thought she is my role model, something to aspire to. She must have gotten that thought too because when we parted, she said again: "be yourself, your own self – that is the gift you give - the only one you have to give."

I had a dream some years later. I was in outer space and there were many vortexes of energy, light and color. Each was a bit different. I immediately recognized one of these energy patterns as my brother Bill who had passed away many years before. How did I know? I was very certain it was him by the distinct energy of that vortex. The kind of tone of it - so much him.

It must be that we are each a separate and necessary tone in a universal symphony and also at the same time - one with the entire symphony.

These higher dimensional people obviously know that.

I'll quickly read the rest of this article:

The next day she brought me to a hangar housing many craft. Before leaving she said with a laugh, "Ok, one more test." She pointed to holographic pictures in the air. In a large city on Earth, I saw falling buildings, much commotion and loss of life. I was horrified. "How can I help this?"

“What should I do?”

“Tell me! What am I supposed to do?”

With a laughter more delightful than any so far, she simply said:

“Something!”

And what is the meaning of her answer, Something!? I finally saw that it meant to engage in life, do something, anything; and that will lead to experiences in consciousness, adventures that wizen us, temper us for even more incredible knowings.

So, do something, anything but something – for fun! For experiences in consciousness

So we are here now in this chaotic world and things are falling and things are building and here we are. What do we do? From my experience with The French Lady and her colleagues, the higher vibrational way, the new earth way, would be to remain grounded in our own unique presence. Be mindful but detached, remember who we are beyond it all, then do what comes to us to do, what comes from that higher discernment and wisdom. And when we act, we act with integrity and purpose with the intention that it be for the highest good of all.

When I “woke up” from this experience, I was at home in Vienna, Virginia on a normal workday. It felt like I had been away a year. I had to remember what to do and where things were that I needed. And later at the office, my assistant had to remind me what I said to a client “yesterday” and what needed to be done “today.”

The French Lady’s presence was with me for over a year back here on Earth. I would call to her when in confusion about things and I would immediately feel her presence.

On one occasion, I suddenly realized a colleague was emotionally manipulating me. “What should I do, how do I cure this?” I asked. Immediately feeling her presence and in my mind hearing her laughter, she said, “Do nothing! Just see it clearly and take it into consideration in your plans.”

That would be the best advice anyone ever gave me. Ah, it is not my mission to change anything or anyone. The universe takes care of that. I just need to see things clearly and use this clarity of discernment to plan my own journey and what is best. For example, If I owned a store, I would not assign an alcoholic to monitor and stock the wine cellar. I would give him another job.

My intent in this talk is to share with you the glimpse I was given of what it is like to be a higher vibrational being – a new earth person.

These are the main characteristics I saw on the ship:

They were joyful and saw experiences in consciousness as fun adventures.

They were unconditionally loving and respectful

They welcomed even cherished differences in perspectives and knew that these differences expanded their own consciousness.

They were very centered and grounded and lived in the now.

They had incredible self-knowledge, knowing their own energy, talents, interests and they lived to express them and use their talents to benefit others in a cooperative way.

So here we are now in this meeting coming to some vision of ourselves as New Earth people. The French Lady seems to be saying, we do it now in our own way. Each of us with our own perspectives, each with our own gifts, our own tone in the New Earth symphony.

She stressed that our creation, the collective creation of all humans on earth, will be different than any other creation in anytime in the universe. It will be unique as we are each unique in time and space.

So, what is the uniqueness in your own essence? What are your gifts? What special kind of perceptive do you bring to the all-consciousness? Contact that special tone, that unique energy at your core. What are your talents and interests? What brings you joy.

The answer to these questions will bring a vision of yourself - your eternal ideal self.

This is what I hope we will glimpse this evening as we imagine ourselves as New Earth People.

WRITING PROMPT:

First let's close our eyes and go inward and look at our lives and our constant interests and what we find to be fun and rewarding, what we loved to do as a child, what we love about ourselves? Let's think on this with love, cherishing ourselves and our uniqueness... what are we doing?

Now take your paper and pen, and write these words and continue with whatever comes into your head.

I am in my highest ideal self and I am.....

SOULWORK:

For the next two weeks we will read our self-descriptions each day and expand on it in our imaginations. We will spend some time each day daydreaming of ourselves in our ideal, confident, wise, fun, and loving selves doing and contributing what we love and what comes naturally to us. Imagine doing it. Be there. And in doing this daily, you will open that aspect of yourself and gift it to the waiting world and it will be joyous and fun. And we will come into our true and unique selves –as the French lady said – we ourselves are the only gift we have to give.
